This volume comprises a genealogical index to historical county records of Williamson County. This is the definitive work on Americans taken prisoner during the Revolutionary War. The bulk of the book is devoted to personal accounts, many of them moving, of the conditions endured by U.S. prisoners at the hands of the British, as preserved in journals or diaries kept by physicians, ships' captains, and the prisoners themselves. Of greater genealogical interest is the alphabetical list of 8,000 men who were imprisoned on the British vessel The Old Jersey, which the author copied from the papers of the British War Department and incorporated in the appendix to the work. Also included is a Muster Roll of Captain Abraham Shepherd's Company of Virginia Riflemen and a section on soldiers of the Pennsylvania Flying Camp who perished in prison, 1776-1777. The collected letters, speeches, etc. written by Abraham Lincoln. The odyssey begins, "James Polk Woodard, whose absence in the family graveyard in northwest Alabama led me on a search and the cause of his death in the Civil War." Merle recalls visiting the cemetery with her family, in the heat of an Alabama summer day, when only four years old. There were six souls sleeping there, including the child Tommy, and she wondered about an empty grave that just might hold the remains of her long searched for great-great-grandfather. And where was James Polk buried? "That night I dreamed of little Tommie who lay in the graveyard. He was killed in a fall from an ox cart when he was only seven, and there were three babies' graves; all these impressions were entered into the encyclopedia of my mind and have remained there." John Lawrence, born in 1609 in Wisset, England, immigrated to America. He was living in Watertown, Massachusetts as early as 1636. His great-great grandson, Zachariah, was born in 1747 in Massachusetts. He married Rebecca Powers and they had seven children. As far as is known, only his sons Daniel, Zachariah IV, and Jonathan Powers survived to adulthood. This is a record of their descendants. George Steele (ca. 1740-1802) and his wife, Margaret Doleman, had seven children. The family lived in Hopewell Township, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, on an island in the Janiata river. He died and was buried on the island. Descendants listed lived in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and elsewhere.
